

Privacy Notice

Pickwick Consulting Limited (PCL) (“Our”, “Us” and “We”) are committed to protecting and respecting your privacy. This Privacy Notice (together with any other documents referred to herein) sets out the basis on which the personal data collected from you, or that you provide to Us, will be processed by Us in connection with the promotion and sale of tickets to events managed or promoted by Us.

Please read the following carefully to understand Our views and practices regarding your personal data and how We will treat it.

We do not generally collect customer data and as such are no longer legally required to register with the Information Commissioner for Data protection purposes.

In the event that we do offer some service that does require data input in order to contact us please be assured that we have voluntarily adopted the principles of the General Data Protection Regulation (“GDPR”).

We may potentially use online data processes for our administration, marketing, and to service customer service products e.g., database updates on behalf of customers. We do not sell or share information except between us and clients requiring database services where we will handle updates on their behalf and feedback the updated records. All our other data processes are for the legitimate interest of the business primarily for in house product service marketing.

1. What information do We gather?

Pickwick Consulting no longer generally collect or store contact data however, should we do so in future the following would be applicable. If you register for products, services, or information on our website you will be asked to fill out a form which will contain personal information such as your name, address, telephone number and email address. We will then ask you to ‘opt-in’ to our database, if you don’t opt-in then no details will be kept on file, if you do opt-in, then We will hold these details securely and transfer names, emails and ages/parental details (where applicable), to our central computer database for administration, information and marketing purposes.

This information is collected to enable Us to send you information about our company and products only and will not be passed to any other organisations.

We may occasionally undertake a product service marketing campaign either directly or via 3rd party suppliers using ‘bought-in’ contact details which have been confirmed as validated in accordance with the GDPR process.

2. Special categories of personal data

PCL will specifically not collect any information classified as a Special Category of Personal data – specifically this means we will not collect any of the following details:

- race
- ethnic origin
- politics
- religion
- trade union membership
- genetics
- biometrics (where used for ID purposes)
- health
- sexual orientation

3. Lawful Basis for Processing

We rely on legitimate interest as the lawful basis on which We collect and use your personal data for the purposes of administration, information provision or direct marketing.

We rely on “performance of a contract with the data subject” as the lawful basis of processing your information where we do this so that we can provide you with our online products or services.

4. How do We process this information, and for what purpose?

We may require these personal details for the following reasons:

- We need your full name, e-mail, address and telephone number so We may be able to send you products, service or product information, or undertake our service provision.
- We require this information for Our own record keeping
- Where you are an existing customer as at 25 may 2018, or have previously enquired about our products and services, we may use your personal information to send you promotional material about other related services or products. We are not required to ask for your consent to do this, but you always have the right to “opt out” of such communications if they are not of interest to you and we will ensure this option is available in all material issued.
- Where you become a customer after 25 may 2018, or enquire about our products and services, we will seek your written consent to use your personal information to send you promotional material about other related services or products. You will always have the right to “opt out” of such communications if they are not of interest to you.
- If you wish to be removed from Our mailing list, simply send Us an email request via the website contact form.

5. Who will We share this information with?

We will not sell or share your information to any third-party service provider, agents, subcontractors or other associated organisation unless they are specifically appointed by Us as part of a contracted service obligation for the purposes of completing tasks and providing services to you on our behalf, these may include things such as online ticketing platforms or Payment Processors.

We may also disclose your personal data to third parties:

- in the event that We sell or transfer our business or assets, in which case We may disclose your personal data to the transferee or buyer of such business or assets; or
- if We or substantially all of our assets are acquired by a third party, in which case personal data held by Us about our customers will be one of the transferred assets; or
- if We are under a duty to disclose or share your personal data in order to comply with any legal obligation, or in order to enforce or apply our Terms and Conditions; or
- to protect Our rights, property, or safety or that of our affiliated entities and our users and any third party We interact with.

Other than as set out above and save insofar as is necessary in order for Us to carry out our obligations arising from any contracts entered into between you and Us, We will not share your data with third parties unless We have procured your express consent to do so.

6. How do We protect your information?

We take appropriate measures to ensure that any personal data records are kept encrypted and secure, including security measures to prevent personal data from being accidentally lost, or used or accessed in an unauthorised way.

We limit access to your personal data to those who have a genuine business need to know it. Those processing your information will do so only in an authorised manner and are subject to a duty of confidentiality.

We also have procedures in place to deal with any suspected data security breach. We will notify you and any applicable regulator of a suspected data security breach where We are legally required to do so.

Our ticketing agents and Payment Processors use their own security measures to keep your personal banking details safe, including safeguards such as firewalls and data encryption. Please see the Payment Processor's own privacy notice for more information about how they protect your personal data.

Unfortunately, the transmission of information via the internet is not completely secure. Although We will do our best to protect your personal data, We cannot guarantee the security of your data transmitted to the Website; any transmission is at your own risk. Once We have received your information, We will use strict procedures and security features to try to prevent unauthorised access.

7. How you can access, change or remove your information?

We welcome any amendments you may suggest, as it is also Our obligation to keep any data We collect as accurate as reasonably possible.

If you have an account you will be able to amend this information via your account profile.

If you do not have an account, please note that we will have only collected the information in relation to the order you have made, we are unable to update any of those details but we can update our own internal records so the data we collect about you is accurate.

8. How long we keep your personal data

Where we hold historical data information which has not been subject to a formal opt-in, we will hold your contact details for seven years from 25 May 2018 for marketing purposes. You will be given the option to opt-out (unsubscribe) from each marketing email you receive from Us.

If you have specifically opted-in to receive email marketing information from us, we will hold your contact details for seven years from the date of opt-in for marketing purposes. You will be given the option to opt-out (unsubscribe) from each marketing email you receive from Us.

Where you have made a purchase, we will hold all your data in relation to that purchase for 7 years from the date of purchase. We are required to retain this information by applicable UK tax law.

9. Where we store your personal data

All information We hold about you is stored securely by our nominated Data Officer, Our Managing Director.

For Our online ticket sales and payment processing, all information We hold about you is also stored by 3rd party providers on their secure servers, which may be at a destination outside the European Economic Area ("EEA").

Countries outside the EEA do not have the same data protection laws as the United Kingdom and EEA. Whilst the European Commission has not given a formal decision that such countries provide an adequate level of data protection similar to those which apply in the United Kingdom and EEA, any transfer of your personal data will be subject to a European Commission approved contract (as permitted under Article 46(5) of the General Data Protection Regulation, or such other approved mechanism that is designed to help safeguard your privacy rights and give you remedies in the unlikely event of a misuse of your personal data.

We will not otherwise transfer your personal data outside of the United Kingdom OR EEA or to any organisation (or subordinate bodies) governed by public international law or which is set up under any agreement between two or more countries.

10. Your Rights

Under the General Data Protection Regulation, you have a number of important rights free of charge. In summary, those include rights to:

- access to your personal data and to certain other supplementary information that this Privacy Notice is already designed to address
- require Us to correct any mistakes in your information which We hold
- require the erasure of personal data concerning you in certain situations
- receive the personal data concerning you which you have provided to Us, in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format and have the right to transmit those data to a third party in certain situations
- object at any time to processing of personal data concerning you for direct marketing

- object to decisions being taken by automated means which produce legal effects concerning you or similarly significantly affect you
- object in certain other situations to our continued processing of your personal data
- otherwise restrict our processing of your personal data in certain circumstances
- claim compensation for damages caused by our breach of any data protection laws.

For further information on each of those rights, including the circumstances in which they apply, see the Guidance from the UK Information Commissioner's Office (ICO) on individual's rights under the General Data Protection Regulation.

If you would like to exercise any of those rights, please:

- email Us at admin@pickwickconsulting.co.uk
- let Us have enough information to identify you, including your name and email address
- let Us have proof of your identity and address (a copy of your driving licence or passport and a recent utility or credit card bill), and
- let Us know the information to which your request relates, including any transaction reference numbers, if you have them

11. How to Complain

We hope that We can resolve any query or concern you raise about our use of your information.

The General Data Protection Regulation also gives you right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority, in particular in the European Union (or European Economic Area) state where you work, normally live or where any alleged infringement of data protection laws occurred. The supervisory authority in the UK is the Information Commissioner who may be contacted at <https://ico.org.uk/concerns/> or telephone: 0303 123 1113.

12. Changes to Our Privacy Notice

We reserve the right to modify this Privacy Notice at any time. Any changes We may make to our Privacy Notice in the future will be notified and made available to you using the Website. Your continued use of the services and the Website shall be deemed your acceptance of the varied privacy policy.

13. Use of Cookies and IP Addresses

We and Our 3rd party providers may collect information about your mobile phone, computer or other device from which you access the website, including where available your IP address, operating system and browser type, for systems administration and to report aggregate information. This is statistical data about our users' browsing actions and patterns and does not identify any individual. We may, however, use such information in conjunction with the data We have about you in order to track your usage of our services.

Our Website uses cookies to distinguish you from other users of our Website. This helps Us to provide you with a good experience when you browse our Website and also allows Us to improve the Website. By using our Website, you agree to our use of cookies as more specifically set out below.

A cookie is a small file of letters and numbers that We store on your browser or the hard drive of your computer if you agree. Cookies contain information that is transferred to your computer's hard drive.

The cookies We use include:

- “Analytical” cookies. They allow Us to recognise and count the number of visitors and to see how visitors move around the Website when they are using it. This helps Us to improve the way our Website works, for example, by ensuring that users are finding what they are looking for easily.
- “Strictly necessary” cookies. These are cookies that are required for the operation of our Website. They include, for example, cookies that enable you to log into secure areas of our Website, use a shopping cart or make use of e-billing services.
- “Functionality” cookies. These are used to recognise you when you return to our Website. This enables Us to personalise our content for you, greet you by name and remember your preferences (for example, your choice of language or region).
- “Targeting” cookies. These cookies record your visit to our Website, the pages you have visited and the links you have followed to our affiliates websites. We will use this information to make our Website, offers e-mailed to you and the advertising displayed on it more relevant to your interests. We may also share this information with third parties for this purpose.

Please note that third party affiliates may also use cookies, over which We have no control.

You may block cookies by activating the setting on your browser that allows you to refuse the setting of all or some cookies. However, if you use your browser settings to block all cookies (including essential cookies) you may not be able to access all or parts of the Website. Unless you have adjusted your browser setting so that it will refuse cookies, our system will issue cookies as soon as you visit our Website.

14. External links

This site may contain links to other sites at which your personal information is collected, on our event pages for example. When following a link to another site, the collection and use of your personal information is controlled by the privacy policy of that site. We do not accept any responsibility or liability for the privacy policies of external websites and your use of external websites is at your own risk.

15. Contact

All questions, comments and requests regarding this Policy should be addressed to admin@pickwickconsulting.co.uk